

MOST'S SENTENCE DEFERRED.

ARRAIGNED IN COURT AND THEN TAKEN BACK TO THE TOMBS.

He Will Be Sentenced on Thursday Morning—The Boss Anarchist Handcuffed to a Common Thief—He Tumbles From the Black Maria—Mr. Howe Obtains a Postponement After Much Argument.

and streets, got in his rear and followed on a dead run. Outside the brown-stone building they joined the main body of Anarchists, who were ready to get a word of cheer to their leader led them to brave the rain and the cordon of police.

Most almost fell from the vehicle as the door opened. To his unspeakable indignation he was handcuffed to a common thief, an ordinary, every-day young thief about five feet high. The disparity in size between him and the Anarchist chief was ludicrous, besides being very inconvenient to Most. The steps of the Black Maria are high and steep, and the doorway is narrow. Thus, when Officer Cassidy drew Brown out by the hand, Most tumbled involuntarily and inelegantly after him.

There was a wicked glitter in Most's eyes as he was thrust in the pen. His imprisonment in the Tombs has evidently filled him with a yet deeper hatred for "the capitalist beast."

The court-room was crowded long before Judge Cowing took his seat. Most's Anarchist friends, Shervitz, Strelitz, Schlag & Co., gathered to surround the prisoner. Mr. Hoffman, his surety, sat in the front row. Lawyer William F. Howe, with a keen sense of the requirements of the situation, appeared in a blazing red scarf of unusual size, made still more conspicuous by a big diamond pin. The hum of conversation ceased as the rattle of his "Hear ye, hear ye," and banged away at the desk.

John Most, the man called out by the clerk, and a path was rapidly cleared by the court officers to allow Most to come to the front. Assistant District Attorney Nicoll rose to move that Most be sentenced in accordance with the verdict pronounced by the jury last, but he was interrupted by Mr. Howe, whose strident voice was heard as follows:

"Before your Honor listens to this motion in the case of Herr Most, I ask, in view of the fact that the stenographic minutes have only just been handed in, that we may have until Friday next to reduce our points to writing and prepare our case thoroughly. There are questions in this case which make it of paramount importance, not only to Mr. Most, but to the community, that they should not be passed upon lightly. The people at large, in view of the importance to the people of New York to a thousand Mosts, a thousand Nicolls or a thousand Howes. I pass my word that in the meantime we shall not apply for our clients' release on bail."

"I ask," said Mr. Nicoll, rising as Mr. Howe ceased, "if there is any likelihood that this Court, after the careful consideration given to this case, under any circumstance delay a new trial? It seems to me that this delay is unnecessary."

"Your Honor," pleaded Mr. Howe, "I want to hear on my exceptions. There is no case in this case of more importance to me than this."

"Well, I'll give you a few days," said Judge Cowing, "but not until Friday. I will give you till Thursday morning at 11 o'clock."

That ought to have settled the matter, but Mr. Howe and Mr. Nicoll had further talk about the points Mr. Howe expected to make. If any new affidavits were to be made, Mr. Nicoll said he claimed the right to be served with copies of them in advance, and Judge Cowing so ordered.

But Mr. Howe asserted the storm by saying that he did not intend to offer anything, or sensational in Most's favor. He should confine himself to the argument on the plea of insanity.

At noon Most was carried back to the Tombs and put in his old cell on the fourth tier, not to leave it till Thursday morning.

WENT COURTING WITH A PISTOL.

Fighting Between a Hoboken Girl's German and Italian Suitors.

Erlot Leterman, a German clerk, living at 188 Eldridge street, is held a prisoner in Hoboken for shooting an Italian named August Zatta.

Some time ago the two men were both aspirants for the hand of Miss Mary Dietz, of 188 Adams street, and although Zatta got married since there has been bad blood between them.

A week ago yesterday Leterman was attacked by Zatta and his friends. For that reason when he went to Hoboken yesterday to see Mary he put a .38-caliber revolver in his pocket. He and Mary were in the saloon of Vick and Anderson, 181 Adams street, when Zatta called Leterman to the street. There Leterman was attacked by three or four men. Drawing the revolver he fired three shots. One bullet entered Zatta's thigh, inflicting a wound which may cause his death.

Clam Beds in Big Demand. At a meeting of the Commissioners of Fisheries this morning E. G. Blackford, Shellfish Commissioner, reported that the outer or northern boundary of the natural growth beds of Little Neck Bay as determined by him Dec. 1, is a line connecting the outer end of the Government wharf at the "City Point" and the outer end of the "City Point" and the outer end of the "City Point."

Sudden Deaths on Staten Island. There were three sudden deaths on Staten Island yesterday. Mrs. Phoebe McCusker, of Richmond Valley, was found dead in bed. John T. McCusker, of Stapleton, died suddenly, and Peter McCusker, of Stapleton, died yesterday.

More Complaints Against Gibbs. Mayor's Marshal Byrne received today three more complaints against J. B. Gibbs. Gibbs has not paid any of his victims, and is not improving. His case will be held before the Grand Jury.

CAN SHARP GO SCOT FREE?

A Chance that He May Move to Have His Indictment Quashed.

A contributed article to the Tribune this morning suggests that the Sharp case can be reopened and reargued in the Court of Appeals, because the constitutional question was ignored in the decision regarding the admissibility of the testimony taken before the Senate Committee. The same paper editorially calls upon the District Attorney to move to reopen the case.

Assistant District Attorney De Laney Nicoll, when shown the article, said: "I know nothing about the other cases of Tweed and Lambert, referred to in the article, nor about the circumstances under which Judge Ruger granted the stay of proceedings, which he had a perfect right to grant, and for which, in my opinion, he was unjustly criticized."

"Moreover, I deprecate all attacks upon the learning and integrity of the court of last resort in this State. Such attacks breed a lack of confidence in its decisions by the community. It will be time enough to discuss whether the suggestion contained in the editorial that the District Attorney should make a motion for a new trial, or a motion for a new trial, is a proper one. Motions for argument are made only for the purpose of securing a reversal of the previous decision of the Court."

"If such a motion were made for the purpose of correcting some of the expressions in the opinion of the Court, the Court would very properly say that it was not sitting as a moot court for the futile purpose of hearing legal discussions."

While it is true that the argument based upon the constitutional provision was contained in my brief and adopted by Chief Justice Van Brunt at the General Term, and not referred to directly in the opinion of the Court of Appeals, that was probably because the Court did not attach sufficient weight to discuss it."

"Such is very often the fate of arguments upon which lawyers confidently rely. In the Tribune's conclusions are the logical result of the decision of the Court of Appeals when the question is raised by some bribe-giver who has been tested before the Legislature. The Court did not attach sufficient weight to discuss it."

"I may have to take part in such an argument, and in the mean time I do not care to discuss it."

Mr. Nicoll said that either Sharp, Richmond or Kerr may make a motion to have the indictments against them quashed on this decision of the Court of Appeals, when the size, made still more conspicuous by a big diamond pin. The hum of conversation ceased as the rattle of his "Hear ye, hear ye," and banged away at the desk.

INNOCENT, BUT IDENTIFIED.

The Wrong Men Arrested for a Robbery in James Ship.

Patrick Foley, a deck hand on the New Haven steamer C. H. Northam, was waylaid in James ship yesterday morning by two men who knocked him down and robbed him of $85.

Foley, who was under the influence of liquor at the time, pointed out John Ryan, of 45 Cherry street, and James Sheehan, of 75 Cherry street, to Policeman Carter, of the Oak street station, as the culprits.

But it was subsequently learned from several persons who witnessed the affair that they were not the robbers. Detective Shalvey this morning arrested Thomas McKenna, alias McGrath, and Patrick Smyth, alias McGee, who were identified by two witnesses as the real thieves.

Justice O'Reilly at the Tombs Police Court this morning discharged Ryan and Sheehan and committed McKenna and Smyth. The prisoners are said to have associated with the three men, Hefferman, Smyth and Cusins, who were sentenced to Sing Sing for five years each for robbery last week.

BOUND TO HAVE BEER OR BLOOD.

Mayor Roche, of Chicago, Wanted to Suppress the Anarchist Saengerfest.

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—Mayor Roche has been summoned back to Chicago from Washington by Chief of Police Eberhold to take charge of matters in connection with the Anarchist Saengerfest.

The Reds are determined to have beer on tap Saturday or have a riot. The police do not relish the job of taking the initiative of breaking up another meeting after the manner of the Chicago Police, and are proposed to take matters in advance so as to forestall trouble and prevent bloodshed.

Death Caused by Poison.

Deputy Coroner O'Meara this afternoon held an inquest on the bodies of Giuseppe and Rosa Saggio, Italian husband and wife, who died yesterday at their home in the tenement at 115 Ridge street, after eating a breakfast made from materials taken from a Bowery ash-can. The stomach of each was badly inflamed, and it was evident that death resulted from gastro-enteritis. A chemical analysis of the contents of the stomach in each case will be made.

Victor Drury's Illness.

Victor Drury, the Sage of District Assembly 49, of the Knights of Labor, is said to be dangerously ill, but the officers of the District, who refuse to give the reporters any news, would not say to-day where he was. Drury is between sixty and seventy years of age, and is a Freeman and a birth. He is a prominent figure in the Home Circle, which runs District 49.

Referee Hancock Did Not Ret.

The Graduate Advisory Committee of the American Intercollegiate Football Association has passed a resolution declaring that Mr. Hancock, referee in the Harvard-Yale game of this year, is to be entirely exonerated from all charges of having any wager on the game, and of making any rollings with partiality or prejudice.

Virginia Wins Her Habeas Corpus Case.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—In the Supreme Court of the United States today Justice Matthews rendered a decision in the habeas corpus case from Virginia. The decision was in favor of the State. The imprisonment of the State officers was declared without authority of law and their release ordered.

McCarthy Gets a Long Sentence.

Engineer McCarthy, who has been convicted of breaking into Mr. Hornblower's house in Jersey City, was sentenced to a term of imprisonment in the New Jersey State Prison.

SAFE BURGLARS CAPTURED

TWO ARRESTED WHILE ON THEIR WAY HOME FROM A ROBBERY.

A Fine Set of Tools Which Had Just Been Used to Rip a Safe Open and the Plunder Found in Their Possession—Plata Drawn on Both Sides—One of the Men the Pal of Lestrangle, Who Killed Billy Walker.

Two policemen of the East Eighty-eighth street station did a clever piece of work this morning, capturing two safe burglars, together with a set of burglar's tools and the proceeds of a robbery.

One of the men, Robert Johnson, alias "Bob" Nichols, is an old and dangerous operator, and has given the police a great deal of trouble. He has always covered his tracks so well that he has been convicted only twice for any serious offense.

A year ago he was concerned in a robbery of the George F. Heisenbutel & Co. 2883 Second avenue, was ripped to pieces and its contents, including bank checks, $153 in money, promissory notes and other property, in all valued at $350, were stolen.

The thieves, taking advantage of the Sunday quiet, had broken into the cellar and from there gained entrance to the store by cutting a hole in the floor. To conceal their guilt they piled a lot of barrels around the safe. By 3 o'clock the safe had been robbed and the burglars, four in number, quietly sauntered across to and down Third avenue.

When they reached One Hundred and Eighth street and Third avenue Policeman John Cottrell saw them, and knowing them to be crooks, he followed them. As the burglars turned into One Hundred and Eighth street Cottrell spied Policeman Kane and he ran up shouting:

"Kane, grab those men; they are thieves." At the same time he seized Nichols by the shoulder and threw him into the street. Nichols fell to the pavement with a sharp clatter. Meantime his companions took alarm and started to run, one of them sending a couple of shots at the policeman. Cottrell called to the police, and a second rifleman, unless he stopped at once.

Clark supposed that Cottrell was after him, and he shouted as he came to a halt: "Hold up, Cottrell. Don't shoot and I will return the favor."

Kane seized him and found in his right hand a revolver, cocked ready for use. At the police station the men were searched. In the pockets of Nichols's coat were found a sectional jimmy, bits, wedges, saw keys, wrenches and a full set of skeleton keys. Clarke had a stone-mason's hammer and couplings for Jimmies. The tools were placed in the rear of the station house.

On the way to the station-house both men made an effort to throw away some papers, which Cottrell saw and picked up. They were the stolen checks. The prisoners were taken to the Harlem Police Court and were remanded. They are now safely locked up in the cells in the basement beneath Inspector Byrne's room at the Police Headquarters.

When Cottrell and Kane were making the arrests William O'Mara, jr., a builder who had been having a good time, interfered to prevent the police from taking his pistol at O'Mara's head and the man then ran away, but was arrested afterwards.

Clark is better known as Bruno and Wilson. His picture appears the Rogue's Gallery, among safe-robbers.

EIGHT WEEKS OUT OF SING SING.

Solomon Sterns Again in Trouble Through a Bad Name and a Taste for Diamonds.

Detective Ruland, of Inspector Byrne's staff, returned from Baltimore this morning with Solomon Sterns, who ran away with $1,000 worth of diamonds which he had obtained from Frederick Kauffman, 192 Broadway, to sell upon commission.

Sterns is a well-known offender, having been released from Sing Sing eight weeks ago after serving a term there for a similar robbery. He told Inspector Ruland that he had tried hard to obtain employment after his release, but his reputation was known and he was unsuccessful. He pawned Mr. Kauffman's diamonds in Boston and then went to Baltimore. In the latter city he committed a similar robbery.

Alvin Fischer Still Unconscious. Alvin Fischer, age twenty-five years, who was assaulted and brutally beaten in the saloon of Charles Bender, in Astoria, yesterday morning, was still unconscious on the bodies of Giuseppe and Rosa Saggio, Italian husband and wife, who died yesterday at their home in the tenement at 115 Ridge street, after eating a breakfast made from materials taken from a Bowery ash-can. The stomach of each was badly inflamed, and it was evident that death resulted from gastro-enteritis. A chemical analysis of the contents of the stomach in each case will be made.

Condensed City News. Thomas E. Fitzpatrick, of this city, was made a night inspector in the Custom-House to-day, at 5 a day.

About fifty Fins were landed at Castle Garden from the steamer "The Girl," which sailed for the foreign forests to work as lumbermen.

Albert Suicer, forty-seven years of age, a passenger on the Troy boat at pier 44 North River, accidentally fell on the pier this morning and broke a leg.

The Chelsea street police last night found Maggie Mampert, of 138 West street, Greenpoint, wandering about the streets. The girl, the police say, ran away from home some days ago.

A customs suit against the Government for an overcharge of import duty, which was begun in 1897, was settled to-day. The heirs of J. B. Hancock, the plaintiff, got a verdict for $1,067.15.

George McVey, Secretary of the New York State Trade Union, will issue a call shortly requesting all trade unions to stand by that body and send delegates to the convention, which will be held at the Hotel New York on Thursday next.

The Park Commissioners being in doubt as to whether they had the right to permit Bernheimer & Schmidt, the brewers, to lay a water-pipe through the park to the North River, a suit was brought in which Judge Hookstaver decided to-day that the Commissioners have the right.

Vice Admiral Viscount Katsurama, the Japanese naval attaché at New York, called at the police headquarters in company with Capt. Chinsky to-day and was introduced to the Superintendent and the heads of the departments, and was shown how the municipal police are controlled.

Herman Sulzer, proprietor of Sulzer's Harlem Park and Casino, was arraigned before Judge Weide in the Harlem Police Court this morning charged with violating the amusement law by giving a concert at the Casino last evening without having the necessary license. He was paroled to examination.

BEARS SHARPLY TWISTED.

The Bulls Toss Up Union Pacific and St. Paul Stocks.

As Wall street operators are settled in their belief that legislation at Washington this winter will pave the way for an advance in securities, by letting out the surplus and preventing a vast accumulation of money in the Treasury in the future, the rise in the stock market this morning excited little surprise. President Cleveland's recommendations on the tariff as outlined in The World this morning were the chief topic of discussion in financial circles and had a good effect.

The bulls naturally selected the stocks for leaders in which the outstanding short interest is greatest. Union Pacific and St. Paul were the special cards, and the bears in them were sharply twisted, the former rising about two points, to 59 1/2, and the latter 1 1/2 to 77 1/2. The trading was lively and at intervals attended with considerable excitement. The movement could hardly have been so successful if London had not been in the market as a buyer. The termination of the political troubles of France has restored confidence on all the European Bourses, and foreign capital, which has been held in abeyance, is once more seeking profitable investment. The bankers with connections in Europe are among the heaviest buyers of stocks to-day.

Most of the active stocks moved up 1/4 to 1 1/2 per cent, but when the short interest had been partly eliminated the bears made a sharp drive against the list. The coalers and Richmond Terminal were the principal sufferers. Among the specialties Pullman distinguished itself by a jump from 140 to 145 and a drop back to 141 1/2.

John Shaw is authority for the statement that the Lake Shore and Pennsylvania roads are doing the largest business in the history of these lines.

The Richmond Terminal fight is by no means ended. A conference was held on Saturday, when some of the large stockholders appointed a committee of three to solicit proxies for a ticket in which Mr. Sully's name is left out. Apropos of this row, it is said that Gen. Thomas, who is a friend of Sully, sold a big block of Terminal last week from 39 down, which spoiled the bull campaign started by the opponents of the latter.

Money has lent at 5 1/2 per cent on call. Foreign exchange is dull and steady. Posted rates 4.92 and 4.88.

BONDS STRONGER.

In governments coupon 4s sold at 125 1/2 and 4 1/2s at 107 1/2. The asking price for the former is now 126, and for the latter 107 1/2. One sale of State bonds effected to-day, 10,000 of Alabama class A, at 109. In railroad bonds Fort Worth 4s advanced 1/4 to 80 1/2; Nickel Plate 4s 1 1/4 to 86 1/2; Kansas & Texas 4s 1/4 to 77 1/2; C. & O. currency 6s 3/4 to 105 1/2; Jersey Central 4s 1/4 to 100, and Oregon Imp. 4s 1/4 to 94 1/2. Wash. Chicago Div. fell 1/4 to 101 1/2, and Cairo & Fulton 1/4 to 105 1/2.

THE FOREIGN MARKET.

American railway securities in London were active and in good demand, prices advancing 1/4 to 1 1/2 per cent. The Central Pacific and St. Paul being particularly strong. Consols for money fell 1/4 to 101 1/2, and do. for the account rose to 101 1/2. In Paris the 3 per cent. rentes rose to 92 1/2, 86c. from 92 1/2, 85c.
